The clear act of the lack of evidence which proves that these crimes are actually limited in scope. Despite the widespread belief that it is a crime to not believe in God, there is not, in fact, any law against atheism in the United States. It is a sentiment perpetuated by religious believers, rather than a legal fact. Likewise, there is not a law stating that you must believe in God. There is no restriction as to what constitutes "faith". This is because the Founding Fathers understood that in the United States, a religion is not supposed to be the method of community and social control and organization. The social control, natural law, and self-reliance required for a functional society require that individuals be left to find their own means of measuring the existence of God or the nonexistence thereof. Thankfully, the Founding Fathers understood that too. [1] At the time, "blackguard" was used to refer to someone who acted in a cruel and malicious manner. (The OED cites this definition) 2. The ability of a lawyer to legitimately argue a point of law. 3. The idea that money is a type of freedom in a society, something that is lost when one is forced to sell their labor. 4. The act of the more significant groups of people in a society saying, "You know what? None of this really matters! Because our freedoms are greater than anything you can think of." 5. The compromise between anarchy and autocracy as a political system. Anarchy is ruled by one, and autocracy is ruled by none. A monarchy is not the ideal situation. An oligarchy is the ideal situation. However, even oligarchies would have the advantage of the lack of violence. The will of a group of people would be brought to decision and determined. This was the case prior to the Enlightenment, and it remains one of the ideals of the ideal democracy. 6. The find the range of $f(f(f(x)))$ Given $f(x)=x^2+x+4$, find the range of $f(f(f(x)))$ So far I found $f(f(x))=x^4+3x^3+2x^2+5x+4$ I am struggling in the finding the range of this, could anyone help me? A: We can immediately rule out $x=0$ and $x=-4$ since $f(f(f(x)))$ will then be positive and non-integer. We can also immediately rule out $x=1$. For if $x=1$, then $f(f(f(x)))=f(f(x^2+x+4))=f(f(2x^2+x+4))=f(2(x^2+x+4)^2+4(x^2+x+4))$
